Want LaFollette, But Lambaste Him

Keynote Speech of Third Party Convention Blames Lobbyists and A. F. of L. for Wisconsin Senator's Attack on Radicals.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Convention Hall, St. Paul, Minn., June 17.—A rallying call for Progressives the nation over to unite in a new third party movement to capture the government "for the workers," was sounded in the keynote speech of William S. Mahoney, St. Paul, temporary chairman, to the Farmer-Labor-Progressive convention here today.

Although plans have been laid for the convention to endorse Senator Robert M. LaFollette, Republican, of Wisconsin, for the presidency, Mahoney, aiming to appease the particularly disturbed elements, slapped LaFollette vigorously for denouncing the convention for its communistic attachments. Yet, in the same breath, Mahoney made it plain that LaFollette was the only outstanding Progressive to whom the convention could turn and hope to land votes in the coming presidential election.

Says Lobbyists Influenced LaFollette
The whole keynote speech was built around LaFollette, and yet, rather in the manner of an explanation of the Wisconsin senator's denunciation of the convention, was headed:

"The unusual character of the attack inclines one to the belief that the affair was not of his own making, but was hatched up by labor politicians in Washington who are opposed to the organization of a national farmer labor party and induced Senator LaFollette to assassinate a movement that threatened to displace with the service of high priced labor lobbyists."

Scarcely had Mahoney relieved LaFollette of taking the initiative himself for the attack upon the convention, than he declared "it was a cruel and unwarranted attitude for LaFollette to take."

"When this convention was first projected, last November, it was never realized at the time that so many and such diverse obstacles would be encountered," continued Mahoney. "It was thought that it was the thing that every progressive element in America wanted and would gladly give the fullest support to."

Blames American Federation of Labor
"We have since learned, however, to our great surprise and sorrow, that we are encroaching on sacred ground and infringing the prerogative of certain would-be great leaders and organizations and instead of getting wholehearted and powerful support we have had to overcome the most energetic opposition."

In this connection, Mahoney specifically mentioned LaFollette, the American Federation of Labor and the Conference for Progressive Political Action, which meets in Cleveland July 4.

"But the character and extent of this very opposition, however, Mahoney added, 'had the effect of stimulating our desire and determination to see this convention through, even though LaFollette himself was inveigled to joining its enemies in the efforts to kill it.'"

Big Claims For Third Party.
"Once let the working class, the men and women on the farms and in the industrial centers understand that they have common interests as useful workers against legalized robbery and that the government can be taken over and made to function for their benefit, it means the end of the exploiter and social parasite," Mahoney declared.

In great detail Mahoney traced how the convention was organized, and how, he said, the predominant sentiment of the conference last November believed that LaFollette would be the ideal candidate.

"It was realized that his (LaFollette's) personal influence would attract a larger number of voters than any other person who might lead and who would detach them from their former foolish party affiliations," said Mahoney.

"It was felt that should he run, the support of the convention should be given him but if he failed, then a national farmer-labor ticket should be provided."

LaFollette and the Democrats.
It was not primarily a LaFollette movement, but a working class movement with LaFollette as an independent factor in promoting the program of education and organization.

LaFollette requested that the convention should be postponed until after the Democratic convention, Mahoney said, but the leaders of the movement had in mind "that the important thing was to make provisions that a candidate would be named before the Democratic convention was held in order to prevent a possible diversion of the progressive forces, which might result from the nomination of a pseudo progressive candidate on the Democratic ticket."

It was clear that Mahoney referred to William Gibbs McAdoo.

Chairman Sees Plot.
"Then something happened. Stories of 'communist' control and intrigue began to emanate from Washington—down where they put over the 'teapot' steal, the looting of the veterans' bureau and many other shady and scandalous transactions," said Mahoney.

"This was as disconcerting as it was false," he charged.

"Then came Senator LaFollette's pronouncement. This, of course, has

Ten Communists Cause Trouble

Threatened to Disrupt New Third Party Convention by Demanding Equal Representation—Threatened to Upset LaFollette Plans.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
St. Paul, Minn., June 17.—A little band of ten men—all admitted dyed in the wool Communists—today threatened to disrupt completely the Farmer-Labor-Progressive third party convention which met here in opening session.

Three days' work behind closed doors during which the leaders of the new third party movement thought they had succeeded in curbing the Communists, the thorn in the side of this convention, was rendered virtually useless when the radical element, maneuvering for controlling position, pressed vigorously on the floor for full recognition and equal representation with all other groups in the meeting.

Communists Demand Everything.
The Communists demanded not only official recognition of their party, but complete acceptance of their platform and plans for the immediate formation of a third party headed by an independent ticket of candidates from which Senator LaFollette, Republican, Wisconsin, would be excluded.

Seldom has a political convention entered upon its work with such confusing problems and with so many cross currents of opinion. With the single exception of routine organization, not a major problem was settled when William Mahoney, temporary chairman, rapped the convention in order.

Plans Changed Over Night.
Until 12 hours ago it seemed that everything had been worked out satisfactorily. The program was to ignore the Communists in the make up of the convention and then proceed immediately to endorse LaFollette for the presidency, if he decides to run.

The leaders, confident that LaFollette's formal announcement was imminent, planned to have the convention select an executive committee of 36 members, two from each state, with power to confer endorsement upon the militant Wisconsin progressive. Upon this committee the Communists demanded representation.

Then came the overnight change. Its suddenness was as dramatic as it was sensational.

Back of it all were the Communist delegates, ten men, five from the Workers' party and five from the Federated Farmers-Labor party. As the first step, the party managers, with Mahoney at the helm, receded from their previous stand to keep the Communists as a party organization out of the convention. It was first decided that they should come in as representatives of the trade unions but not as members of the Communist party.

Simple Recognition Not Satisfactory.
The radicals, under the leadership of W. Z. Foster, C. E. Ruthenberg and Joseph Manley, claimed that when the call for the convention was sent out last November the Communists were included. So the managers relented, Mahoney announcing when the switch in plans was made that "it would be a breach of faith not to admit the Communist party."

But this did not satisfy the Communists. They threatened even to balk the plans for the formation of the national executive committee of 96.

The Communists said flatly that they did not want any executive committee but demanded to proceed at once with the launching of an independent third party with candidates of its own choosing and selection. This was aimed as a direct slap at LaFollette who savagely attacked the radicals in his recent letter to Herman Ekern, attorney general of Wisconsin.

Minority Balks Majority.
Mahoney and his lieutenants, particularly Thomas Ayers, farmer-labor candidate for the senate in South Dakota, and Walter Thomas Mills, of the farmer-labor party of California, opposed the immediate formation of a third party, preferring first to perfect the state farmer-labor parties and endorse LaFollette as the only step in national politics this year. They commanded a majority of the delegates, but even so their hands were tied by the Communists.

So completely, in fact were Mahoney and his followers bound by the Communists, that not a single committee was ready to report to the convention at the opening today, although all the major committees, platform, nominations and organization, have been in almost constant session for three days.

Though Mahoney claimed the largest following, the Communists went into the convention holding the balance of power, "for it was they, and they alone who threatened to smash the plans that the party managers had so carefully laid, endorse LaFollette and deter the launching of a strongly centralized national third party of farmers and laborers."

had an evil effect on the convention attendance. It was a cruel and unwarranted attitude for LaFollette to take."

Argument Was "Just Friendly"

But it Grew Warmer, Led to Riot Call for Police and Wound Up in Police Court With a $3 Fine for the Participants.

"It was just a friendly argument, but one word led to another and then to blows and then the first thing we knew the police came," was the explanation made by Daniel Cramer, Chris Genter and John Kozlowski, who were arrested late Monday evening at Hasbrouck avenue and the Strand by Officers Camp and Alek, who had responded to a riot call received at police headquarters.

All three appeared in police court this morning and the differences of the night before had been wiped away and they were again all on a friendly footing.

As it was the first time they had been in trouble Judge Schrick was lenient and imposed a fine of $3 each, which all three paid.

France Wants Reparations

New President Says Republic Cherishes No Dangerous Ambitions—His First Message Read to Deputies and Senate.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Paris, June 17.—"France nourishes no dangerous ambition, but aspires only to obtain payment of reparations and guarantees for security which were solemnly promised to her," said President Doumergue in his first message to Parliament this afternoon.

The message on government policy was read simultaneously in the Chamber of Deputies and Senate shortly after 3 o'clock.

"France's problems would be easy to solve," continued the president, "if there were a pure atmosphere of peace everywhere. It is not France's fault that conditions are what they are."

President Doumergue, in conclusion, said France cannot give up her right for supervision of the vanquished enemy who seems to be preparing for revenge.

Following the presidential message Premier Herriot read the new cabinet's declaration of policy.

Democrats Look For Dark Horseto Get Nomination

Already Considering Elimination of Smith, McAdoo and Underwood—Rule That Gave Them Wilson May Be Abolished.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, June 17.—The Democratic national convention that meets in Madison Square Garden one week from today will be a "battle of the second choices" if the talk among the leaders now here can be accepted as an accurate indication of what the average Democratic mind is thinking.

While there are numerous candidates, the chances naturally revolve about the trio presented by McAdoo, Smith, Underwood, and it is second of choices that the leaders speak when the discussion gets down the private stage.

Eliminate the "Big Three."
The plain and unvarnished reason, therefore is that comparatively few of the leaders believe that either McAdoo, Smith or Underwood can be nominated.

They envision a long drawn out battle between McAdoo and Smith. They see a deadlock at the Garden comparable to the Clark-Wilson deadlock at Baltimore, the Cox-McAdoo deadlock at San Francisco and in the end they see a dark horse come galloping from some middle western box stall and get the oats, just as Harding did at Chicago four years ago.

It might be pointed out that in other famous Democratic deadlocks, one of the leaders has come through—Wilson at Baltimore, for instance, or Cox at San Francisco. But it is also pointed out that issues and conditions govern this contest which were completely lacking in other conventions—religion and Ku Klux Klanism, wet and dry, the League of Nations and a score of lesser issues that spawn rigid beliefs and unyielding positions.

Belief in Second Choice Success.
This belief in the destiny of a second choice—it amounts almost to conviction on the part of many shrewd party prophets—constitutes the sole stock in hope of the Ralston managers, the John W. Davis boosters, the Glass people, the Cummings crowd, the Copeland forces, every one, in fact whose name has been drawn into this Democratic melting pot.

Their representatives and friends are already on the ground here. They ask the new arrival with obvious casualness concerning his predilections toward the leading triumvirate, and then almost beat their first question with their second.

"And who is your second choice?" The McAdoo managers, led by Judge David Ladd Rockwell, and the Smith managers, whose spokesman is Franklin D. Roosevelt, are apprehensively cognizant of this situation.

May Forsake Two-Thirds Rule.
It is responsible for the question of the quadrennial discussion about abrogating the two-thirds nominating rule. It is described as musty, undemocratic and indefensible—by the McAdoo forces particularly, for they are serenely confident that some time within the first 10 ballots McAdoo will poll a majority of the 1,096 delegates.

The effort of the McAdoo people to force a rule through the rules committee, abolishing the two-thirds law will be sagely opposed by not only the Smith contingent but also by the adherents of every dark horse in the stable. The two-thirds rule is one of their chief assets, and they will not lose it lightly.

Rule That Gave Them Wilson.
Even the McAdoo managers themselves are not unanimous on the question of fighting for its abrogation. In the McAdoo camp there are many Wilsonian Democrats, men who hailed with the late president at Baltimore twelve years ago. They recall in that convention had it not been for the two-thirds rule, Champ Clark and not Woodrow Wilson would have been the nominee, for the late Missourian polled a majority over Wilson at one stage of the convention.

"The two-thirds rule gave us Wilson; without it we would not have had him," said one veteran McAdoo. Incidentally, he is identified with the McAdoo forces. "We have had it a century. It should not be abolished now." He predicted, too, that it would not be abolished now.

Candidates Take Personal Charge.
Pre-convention activities began to pick up today. Governor Smith took personal charge of his headquarters in Madison avenue and greeted newcomers.

Tomorrow McAdoo headquarters in the Vanderbilt Hotel will be taken over by McAdoo in person. He will be accorded a demonstration upon his arrival here from Los Angeles.

Coolidge Will Not Change Plans

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, June 17.—President Coolidge made it plain to callers at the White House today that the ill feeling among Republican leaders as an aftermath of the Cleveland convention had caused no change in his plans to have his presidential campaign managed by William M. Butler, selected as chairman of the Republican national convention committee.

Both Butler and Slep Will Help

Petty Likes and Dislikes Injected in Cleveland Convention Have Been Smoothed Out—Butler Wields Whip Hand.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, June 17.—William M. Butler, of Massachusetts, will continue to wield the whip hand in managing President Coolidge's campaign for another term in the White House.

The president will do "everything possible" to retain C. Bascom Slep of Virginia as his secretary and political adviser.

Those were today outstanding decisions—as indicated at the White House—in a bitter factional fight that developed in the Republican party as a result of Butler's tactics in attempting to control the convention at Cleveland last week. Strenuous efforts will be made to keep both men in party councils.

It was made clear, however, that Mr. Coolidge intends "to stick" with Butler as his personal friend and choice. The White House contends that most of the criticism of the national committee's new chairman has been unjust; that personal and petty likes and dislikes were injected into the situation and that no presidential manager ever faced a harder task at a convention than Butler did.

"That Slep was mad" cannot be denied. When he arrived at the White House for a showdown, he had his resignation in his pocket.

But when he left for Cincinnati, he apparently was well satisfied with his talk with the president. He concluded his statement denying any intention of resigning by saying when he returned he would have a place on the advisory committee of the Republican national committee, in whose hands will be the "real management of the campaign."

As against this, other White House spokesmen today said the advisory committee would be just what its name implied—"advisory"—and that its function would be to aid, not supersede Butler. They want Slep but they also want Butler.

Three Balloons Still Missing

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Brussels, June 17.—Only three balloons—one American, one Swiss and one Belgian—were still unaccounted for at five o'clock this afternoon in the international contest for the James Gordon Bennett Cup.

Fourteen others had landed and reported. The American entry not yet reported was the Goodyear, piloted by W. G. Vanorman.

It was a curious circumstance that while the balloons started in an easterly direction after leaving Brussels, three landed to the west of Brussels and one to the southwest.

Official estimates of the distance travelled by the first four balloons which landed were:

Crampon, Italian, pilot Valle, landed near Fecamp, France, 165 miles.

Uncle Sam, American, pilot Honeywell, landed near Rouen, 160 miles.

Banshee III, British, pilot Baldwin, landed near Metz, 115 miles.

Wrong Child Was Identified

So When Marie Scudera Produced Her Own Son, Woman Neighbor Admitted Mistake in Identifying Dead Baby.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Philadelphia, June 17.—Mrs. Marie Scudera, taken into custody by police last night in connection with the finding of the body of a three-year-old boy in a suitcase here recently which had been identified as that of her son, was released today when she produced her son, alive and well.

Mrs. Catherine Bennett, a former neighbor of Mrs. Scudera, told police after seeing the boy alive that she had been mistaken in the identity of the dead child.

Mrs. Scudera was arrested after she had been on a shopping tour here. Her son was on a farm near Monmouth Junction, N. J., and after her arrest she sent a friend after the child.

This development throws the case back into the list of unsolved mysteries.

The chamber met later in the day for the reading of the new government's declaration of policy for both home and foreign affairs.

Praise for Dawes Plan.
President Doumergue praised the Dawes reparations plans, saying:

"Since the international experts' reparations report has been prepared the reparations question seems to be on the road to solution. The debtor, however, must prove his good faith by precise acts, not by simple agreements."

"The government has only one aim—to give the country the peace it has so nobly earned," said Premier Herriot.

Harvest Weather Forecast Here

Cooperating with U. S. Weather Bureau Officials at Ithaca, N. Y., the Home Bureau committee women and manager are working out a telegram, telephone relay system which will bring a daily weather forecast telegram to all members who have telephone connections. This Harvest Weather Forecast Service will start July 1st and terminate August 31st. It amounts to a fairly accurate forecast for a period four days in advance. The station at Ithaca sends daily telegrams to one person (key No. 1) in each central telephone exchange (Exchanges—Kingston-Ellenville, etc.). From these key points telegrams will be relayed by phone to all local rural lines within the exchange. One lady on each local line (key No. 2) will then have the forecast and will be responsible for its correct communication to any person who calls.

The time required to relay the report from the station at Ithaca should not exceed two hours. All telegrams leave Ithaca at 10:00 a. m. When Mr. Jones comes from the field at noon time Mrs. Jones should be able to greet him with a correct weather forecast for the next three to four days. The value of such information cannot be estimated in dollars and cents but a report from one county last year estimated the saving of $25,000 on the hay crop alone.

Twenty counties in the state received the forecast last year. The station at Ithaca received over one hundred letters commending the service and asking that it be continued this year.

Details for the efficient distribution of the report are now being completed. Watch the daily papers for announcement of complete list of key numbers and further details.

Find Kellogg's Bran "Easy way to avoid constipation" after suffering for years

Constipation is a dangerous disease. It can lead to many others. Twenty years' suffering with constipation undiminished this man's health. Kellogg's Bran restored it—as it has done for thousands. This is what he says:

"Gentlemen: After eating Kellogg's Bran twice a day for one month I find it not only an 'Easy Way to Avoid Constipation,' but an easy and most pleasant way to cure it. I have been troubled with constipation for more than twenty years and after adopting the milk and bran diet I find my stomach greatly improved, and find it a specific for constipation. I deem it only justice that you should know what your product has done for me, and what it is capable of doing for others."

(The original of this letter is on file at the Kellogg Company, Battle Creek, Mich.)

Kellogg's Bran relieves mild and chronic constipation because it is ALL bran. It brings sure results. It sweeps, cleans and purifies the intestine in nature's own way. Don't experiment. Only ALL bran can be 100 per cent effective.

If eaten regularly, Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbed, is guaranteed to bring permanent relief—or your grocer returns your money. You should eat two tablespoonfuls daily in chronic cases, with every meal.

The flavor is delicious—nutritious, cooked and krumbed. Enjoy it with milk or cream, sprinkled on other cereals, cooked with hot cereals, or in the delightful recipes on every package. Made in Battle Creek. Sold by grocers everywhere.

HERE'S THE LATEST—COD LIVER OIL IN TASTELESS TABLETS

Greatest Flesh Builder For Skinny, Weak, Run-Down People—Full of Vitamines.

No more will weak, thin, unfortunate children cry in protest when the nasty, fishy-tasting, horrible-smelling cod liver oil is brought out.

Medical science progresses rapidly, and now you can get at your druggist's real, genuine cod liver oil in sugar-coated tablets that young and old can take with ease and pleasure. Even the run-down and skinny grown-ups, who ought to take cod liver oil, because it really is the greatest vitamin food and builder of healthy flesh in the world, will feel extremely joyful when they read this welcome news.

Of course, doctors have been prescribing cod liver oil in tablets under another name for several years, but it is only of late that one can walk into a drug store and get a box of these flesh-producing tablets just as easy as a bottle of magnesia.

Thin, run-down, anemic men, women and children who need to grow strong and take on flesh are advised to get a box of McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets, and if you don't gain 5 pounds in 30 days just get your money back.

One woman gained fifteen pounds in five weeks, according to her own doctor—another ten pounds in three weeks. A very sickly child, aged nine, twelve pounds in seven months, and now plays with other children and has a good appetite.

Just ask for McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets. Any good druggist will tell you that they are wonderful flesh and health builders. Only sixty cents for 60 tablets.

Get McCoy's, the original and genuine Cod Liver Oil Tablet and beware of imitations.

Italian Ministry Offers to Resign

Public Follows Political Scandal Over Kidnapping and Slaying of Socialist Deputy—3,000 Fascist Militia on Guard.

Telegraph to The Freeman. Rome, June 17.—Following a lengthy conference between Premier Mussolini and King Victor Emmanuel at the Quirinal today it was announced that Mussolini had offered his resignation as a result of the political scandal over the kidnapping and slaying of Socialist Deputy Giacomo Matteotti.

All the members of the ministry tendered their resignations to Premier Mussolini.

Important government developments are expected within 24 hours.

Five thousand black-shirted fascist militia men fully armed, poured into Rome today from the provinces to keep order and to protect the fascist organization.

Their arrival resulted from the general excitement and unrest over the kidnapping and slaying of Socialist Deputy Giacomo Matteotti one week ago today. Political enemies of Fascism attributed the crime to members of the Fascisti.

Guards along the Italian frontiers were reinforced to prevent suspects from the kidnapping from escaping the country.

Filippo Filippelli, former editor of Corriere D'Italia, most prominent fascist newspaper in Rome, was arrested while attempting to reach the French coast in a motor boat. His whereabouts were discovered by newspaper reporters.

Cesare Rossi, for whom a warrant was issued, has not yet been found. He was formerly head of the Press Bureau of the Interior Department, but resigned on Saturday, his resignation being accepted immediately by Premier Mussolini.

The residence of former Under Secretary Fuzi is being watched by police. He resigned at the same time as Signor Rossi.

About a dozen arrests have been made. The other prisoners, R. Faldi, former editor of the newspaper Tempo, charged with aiding Filippelli to escape; Albert Vopli, who was arrested at Lecco charged with complicity in the kidnapping of Matteotti last Tuesday, and other prominent persons.

Straight Outline Favored in Paris

Smart Gowns of "Tube" Type, Not Uncomfortably Tight, Are Shown.

The war of outline is still raging, according to a Paris correspondent in the Boston Globe. Paul Poiret has many faithful followers who fully appreciate the curiously oriental curves he is giving his latest models. Other famous dress designers are following the Poiret lead, more or less. We are surrounded by styles that recall the gala costumes of Indian princes, by dance frocks wide at the hem and skin tight above the hips.

But there is another side to the picture. Many of the best dressmakers of Paris are insistently showing a straight outline. Smart little gowns which are "tube" in character, but not really uncomfortably tight at the hem, since they are almost always slit up at one side to show a plaited underdress made of supple material.

This latter outline is undoubtedly in favor with the more exclusive Parisiennes, and it is exploited on the stage by many of our best-known actresses. It is the herald of the Directorate revival which Worth has so confidently predicted. Changes of fashion—I speak of radical changes—move quite slowly in Paris, much more slowly than in New York or even London.

It rarely happens that the real Paris elegants accept, except as a passing fad, a sensational or unduly remarkable style. She has unlimited faith in perfection of ensemble and individuality. On these two vitally important items her mind is made up, once and for ever. I want to deal exclusively with an outline in which you have an eminently Parisian model recently created by one of the most famous designers in Paris. Something original and at the same time wearable, and quite simple.

Opened at One Side.

The straight, perfectly cut dress was made of fine navy blue serge, and it opened at one side over a plaited underdress of japonica-pink crepe de chine. The pink crepe was passed through a slit at the neck, just below the round opening, and it formed a scarf which crossed the back of the neck and then fell loose over the right shoulder. It was a charming little model, very original, and yet something that could be worn almost anywhere in early summer.

All these straight dresses show a rather long waistline, and more often than not there is no girdle, merely some clever arrangement of folds or tucks over the hips. I recently saw Doucet models with slits at both sides to show the plaited underdress more plainly.

Both Doucet and Doeuillet are showing many plaitings, short skirts for morning wear plaited all around; afternoon and evening models which have fine plaits only at one side or directly at the hem with the top notably tight. American girls in Paris are always on the alert when the pretty actress, Mlle Gaby Morlay, appears in a new piece. Gaby Morlay is a noted dresser, who always wears youthful garments, or at least, those which give a very youthful and smart outline.

Jean Patou has just designed some stage dresses for this artist for a new production at the Vaudeville theater, and they are all ideal. For instance, a little morning frock made of bottle-green alpaca—a material that is at the moment in great favor—and ivory white crepe de chine.

The alpaca skirt is set in flat plait and opens in front over a plain underdress of white crepe. The skirt is attached over the hips to a sort of glorified shirtwaist of white crepe, and where the materials are joined two bands of green velvet ribbon circle the figure. The white crepe shirtwaist has a loose collar, caught in by a black taffeta scarf, knotted in front and held down by a beetle pin set in diamonds. The sleeves of the shirtwaist are long and loose, caught in at the wrists by flat bands carrying beetle links, similar to the pin in the tie. Extraordinarily chic, this little frock.

Skirt and Fitted Coat.

Another Patou dress worn by Gaby Morlay is a tulle-skirt and fitted coat—of dark blue repp piped with white glove kid and accompanied by a white crepe de chine casquin blouse, the latter attached to the dark blue repp skirt under a band of fine embroidery. The coat opens in a long V and shows a white crepe turnover collar caught in by the inevitable black taffeta tie.

So many of the new summer coats have a throw-over scarf instead of a collar. In Paris there is a run on Batik scarfs, which show fantastic designs in vivid color on a black, white or dark blue ground. Very often the

ORCHARD COVER CROPS FOR HUDSON VALLEY.

How to overcome difficulties encountered in the successful growing of cover crops in orchards of the Hudson river valley will receive special study by Prof. H. B. Tukey, who is in charge of the fruit investigations in the valley for the State Agricultural Experiment Station at Geneva.

According to an announcement made recently by station officials, many soils in the Hudson valley are deficient in lime. It is said, and determining the amount of limestone required to bring these soils into satisfactory condition for cover crop production will be an important feature of the work.

The plan of the experiments as outlined by Prof. Tukey includes growing many different cover crops, such as rye, wheat, oats, sweet clover, clover, alfalfa, soybeans, rape, turnips, corn, vetch and weeds. Plots will be laid out for each cover crop, and each plot will be further divided so that part will receive no limestone whatsoever and part limestone at the rate of 0.5 ton per acre, part 1 ton to the acre, part 2 tons, part 5 tons, and part 10 tons per acre. The observation made on the behavior of these different crops will have a direct bearing on the selection of cover crops for the experimental orchards located at various points in the valley.

Commenting further on the proposed investigations, Prof. Tukey says, "Soils in the Hudson valley are, as a class, deficient in limestone and it is therefore difficult to secure good growths of leguminous cover crops. Moreover, these same soils are generally deficient in organic matter and humus, a fact which makes the use of such soil-building cover crops as clover and vetch all the more desirable. On gravelly and sandy soils orchardists have found it almost impossible to get a good growth of any cover crop whatsoever, so that the orchards on such lands are especially in need of the humus and organic matter that cover crops supply."

Mrs. J. Irving Wood of Carnegie Hall, New York, is spending the month of June at the MacDowell Colony at Peterborough, New Hamp-

This colony was founded and is directed by Mrs. Edward MacDowell, the wife of the great American composer, as a memorial to her husband, much of whose music was written in these beautiful wooded hills. It is for creative artists. Mrs. Wood, the daughter of the late Howard Hendricks, is well known in Kingston as a pianist and teacher. She is a guest at the Colony Guest House.

Who Will Win
At Poughkeepsie?

Great Uncertainty Concerning Winner of Big Varsity Race Late This Afternoon—Six Crews Contending—Experts' "Dope."

By Telegraph to The Freeman

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 17.—

An under current of excitement swept Poughkeepsie and its picturesque surroundings today. Charming college men thronged the streets and hotel lobbies and milled over the big question: "Who will win the intercollegiate?" Hundreds of thousands of visitors thronged to vantage points on the river banks; the historic Hudson itself was ablaze with color; craft of all kinds, gaily decorated, dotted the river for miles, and the spirit of carnival and holiday was in the air.

Varsity Eight Is Big Event.

Six college crews, trained to the last minute, for representing the east, two the west, were resting at their respective boathouses awaiting the signal to start in what promises to be a gruelling and sensation thrilling three mile varsity eight race this afternoon. These eight represent Cornell, Columbia, Syracuse, Pennsylvania, Wisconsin and Washington.

Say Last Mile Will Decide.

The race will be decided in the last mile, experts predicted today.

For days splendidly put up young men, with muscled arms and bronzed bodies, have been earnestly pulling at oars up and down stream in all kinds of weather in "time trials" and tryouts. The newspapers have recorded some of these preparatory tests as "records," others were classed as "heartbreaking," and "discouraging." Hopes have been alternately high and in the depths.

How Experts "Dope It."

Today all crews announced they were "ready." Not an ailment. Not a bombastic prediction. Not a single cry of despair. And no predictions. They left the problem of picking the winner to the "experts" and the experts, with corrugated brows and doubtful minds, "doped" the race about as follows:

Washington—the favorite. But favorite by only a slight margin. This eight, which won the annual regatta last year is disturbed, experts say, by the loss of Max Tuft, its veteran number four, who is ill with fever.

Columbia—Formidable. "Inside" information to the effect that this crew negotiated the course in the spanking time of 14 minutes and 23 seconds.

Pennsylvania—Dangerous contender. Wonderful short distance crew. The question seems to be:

Can Penn spurt in the last mile and hold it?

Cornell—A "dark horse." This crew has tradition, if nothing more, back of them. In years gone by it was merely necessary to say, "Cornell" at Poughkeepsie.

Syracuse—Problematical. A good crew, coached by the great Ten Eyck, Wisconsin—Inexperienced. Has improved steadily since it came east to train, however, and it may spring a surprise.

50,000 to See Race.

The weather was clear and warm. Fifty thousand persons are expected to witness the classic.

The Racing Program.

Following are the crews and their positions, numbering from the west bank, and time of starting, in the regatta:

4:15 p. m., first race, Junior varsity crews: No. 1, Washington; No. 2, Cornell; No. 3, Columbia; No. 4, Pennsylvania; No. 5, Syracuse; two miles.

5 p. m., second race, freshman crews: No. 1, Columbia; No. 2, Syracuse; No. 3, Pennsylvania; No. 4, Cornell; two miles.

6 p. m., third race, varsity crews: No. 1, Syracuse; No. 2, Washington; No. 3, Pennsylvania; No. 4, Cornell; No. 5, Columbia; No. 6, Wisconsin; three miles.

The start is daylight saving time.

Boxing Bouts
Wednesday Night

The second out door boxing show of the Kingston Exhibitions, Inc., will be staged Wednesday evening at 8:15 o'clock at the Kingston Fair Grounds. There will be thirty-eight rounds of boxing and some fast fights may be expected. The big ring has been pitched between home plate and the grand stand, and plenty of seats have been arranged.

The main ten round bout will be between Jimmy Russo and Sammy Marino, both of New York. These boys are exceptionally fast.

The second ten round bout brings together Joe Romanelli of Poughkeepsie and Tony Caraccio of New York. An eight round bout between Johnny Muddy of Peekskill and Joe Werner of this city; a six round bout between Marty Sullivan of New York and Joey Kaufman of New York; and a four round bout between Joe Coffey of this city and Thomas Duffy of New York complete the card.

UMPIRES DO WELL
ON FINANCIAL SIDE

Some Draw $9,000 and Expenses Per Season.

Umpires' salaries have risen along with those of the players in the major leagues in the last 20 years.

Twenty years ago, the top salary for the good guesser was $1,500. He paid his own living expenses, but the league was sufficiently generous to buy the railroad tickets. In those days, by the way, a dollar was 100 cents, not 30 as in these high and riotous modern times.

And while their money went a long way in those days, no umpire was able to retire or buy large blocks of real estate out of his salary. When the campaign had run its course, most of them had to go to work once more until April.

Nowadays, the high cost of umpires is a problem in the majors, as well as in the minor leagues. A generation ago, four umpires were sufficient. Their combined salary amounted to $6,000. To this sum, the league had to add $6,000 to $9,000 for traveling expenses. A circuit could get along on an outlay of from $12,000 to $15,000 per season for umpires.

At present, each major league has a regular staff of eight umpires and usually carries two extra to provide for emergencies. This change was made necessary by the adoption of the double umpire system some seasons ago. The average salary is $6,000. Hotel and railroad expenses bring up the average per man to $5,000 for the season. Each league can hardly hope to escape now without a gross umpire expense of $100,000 to $110,000.

Recruit umpires, of course, are not paid as much as the regulars. The new man usually starts at $3,500 and is raised year by year as his efficiency warrants until his salary reaches the $9,000 level.

Such a salary, when it is taken into consideration that he is free from October until April to engage in another gainful occupation, should give the average umpire sufficient funds to keep from turning panhandler when the day comes for him to quit baseball.

But sometimes, on a July afternoon, when there are a lot of close ones to call, and the umpire must fight both the heated atmosphere and the torrid temper of players who dislike to have a decision go against them in a close game, the hard-worked umpire is wont to believe that the job is not worth keeping at $100,000 bucks per annum.

"Personal Column," said Billie Brownie, "tells us the following:

"Juda of the East African Jungle, and Katherine, his loving lioness wife have taken up their abode in a zoo.

"Sir Peacock is looking very handsome these days. His train is spread out and the sunlight upon all the colors is a sight worth seeing.

"Mr. and Mrs. Robin gave a cherry party at their residence last week. It was pronounced a great success, judging from the amount of cherry pits to be found on the ground afterward.

"Miss Sparrow had a quarrel with Miss S. Sparrow yesterday. It was understood that all the Sparrows joined in the quarrel and that a splendid time was had by all.

"Mrs. Spider sends word to the flies and asks them to be present at a banquet on Tuesday next. They need not dress up—just come as they are, says Mrs. Spider. It is useless, Mrs. Spider says, to make them dress for such an occasion!

"The Flies are all about and are as rude as ever. They annoy everyone but do not take the hint that their presence is not desired.

"It is reported that the Flies have no sensitive feelings of that sort.

"They held a race that day to see who could do the fastest work.

"Prizes were given to all by Mr. Wind.

"Mr. and Mrs. Pigeon had their pictures painted the other day.

"It was said that the colors of the feathers they wore upon their heads and necks were greatly admired.

"The greatest item of news which the Natureland News has the honor to print is that

Bruce, the dog, saved the life of two little girls in swimming last week.

"Bruce has the heartfelt gratitude of all and the admiration of all.

"It is said that a medal is being made for Bruce.

"The Natureland News congratulates the village which has such a dog in its midst.

"That seems to be all the news for this time," he said.

GOOD THINGS FOR EVERY DAY

A delicious drink for the warm days may be made by combining grape juice with ginger ale.

The two flavors blend well, and each gives zest to the other.

Whey punch has a delicious flavor, and is both nourishing and refreshing when properly served.

Whey Punch.—Take one cupful of whey, add one and one-quarter cupfuls of sugar and boil together for five minutes. Cool and add a quart of whey, the juice of two lemons and one cupful of shredded pineapple.

Grape and Ginger Ale Jelly.—Heat a pint of grape juice with two table-spoonfuls of sugar; when hot pour over two table-spoonfuls of gelatin which has been softened in a table-spoonful of water. Add a pint of ginger ale. Mold and cool on ice until ready to serve.

Whey Sponge.—Take two cupfuls of whey, two table-spoonfuls of gelatin, one-third of a cupful of water, two-thirds of a cupful of sugar, one egg white, one cupful of grated raw carrot, the grated rind and the juice of half a lemon. Soak the gelatin in cold water, dissolve in hot water. Mix with the whey, add sugar and set the mixture in a pan of ice water. When it begins to thicken around the edges beat well with an egg beater, add the lemon rind and juice and carrot. Fold in the well-beaten white of the egg and turn into a mold. Serve as a salad.

Spice Cake.—Break two eggs in a measuring cup, fill up with sour cream, add one cupful of sugar, one-quarter teaspoonful of soda, one teaspoonful of baking powder sifted in one and one-quarter cupfuls of flour, adding such spices as appeal to the taste; bake in gem pans or in layers.

A delicious salad combination which may be prepared when fresh tomatoes are to be found, with canned pears: Cut the tomatoes in quarters and alternate on a lettuce-lined plate with quarters of pears, or eighths if large. Serve with a highly-seasoned salad dressing.

Beginning Thursday and Continuing for Three Days—Large Attendance
Promised of Representatives of Local Associations.

The thirty-seventh annual convention of the New York State League of Savings and Loan Associations opens at Newburgh Thursday, June 19. Approximately 250 delegates, representing 175 of the 300 Savings and Loan Associations of the state of New York, will be present.

The year 1923 and the first part of the year 1924 has been a very prosperous period for Savings and Loan Associations. This, coupled with the fact that many matters of interest to the Savings and Loan Associations are to be discussed at the Newburgh convention, insures a large attendance.

President Webb G. Cooper of the New York State League of Savings and Loan Associations has announced that data supplied him by the members of his league indicates that the total assets of the Savings and Loan Associations of the state of New York is now in excess of two hundred million dollars, an increase of eighteen million dollars since January 1, 1924. In the year 1923 the Savings and Loan Associations of New York state loaned forty-four million dollars for the financing of over ten thousand homes in New York state and since January 1, 1924, in excess of twenty million dollars additional has been placed in home financing.

The business sessions of the convention will take up Thursday, Friday and Saturday mornings. On Thursday afternoon the delegates will listen to the address of welcome by Hon. Dewitt E. McKinstry, treasurer of Newburgh, the responses being made by Hiram C. Horton of Westerlo, S. I., first vice president of the league. The first morning session will include addresses by the president, Webb G. Cooper of Oswego; the report of the executive secretary, George D. Palmer of New York city, and the report of the treasurer, George H. Cleaver of Oswego.

On Thursday afternoon the delegates will hear addresses by K. V. Haymaker, former president of the United States League of Local Building and Loan Associations; W. A. Stockwell, secretary of the Dime Savings and Loan Association of Cortland; Paul S. Collier, secretary-manager of the Northeastern Retail Lumbermen's Association; Meade C. Dobson, executive secretary of the New York State Association of Real Estate Boards; and Louis Victor Eyring, the well known inspirational orator. Business sessions will be held on Friday and Saturday mornings with a banquet at Bear Mountain Inn on Friday evening, at which the principal speakers will be United States Senator Royal S. Copeland and George V. McLaughlin, superintendent of banks of the state of New York.

T. B. HOSPITAL PATIENTS DELIGHTFULLY ENTERTAINED

On Wednesday evening of last week the patients at the Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital were given a rare treat and one that would not have been possible but for daylight saving time. On that evening the young people, some seventy in number, of St. Peter's Dramatic Society, visited the hospital and gave an outdoor play on the grounds in front of the institution. It was called "The Minstrel—The Merry Haymakers," and was pretty and clever, giving entertainment and many good laughs to the shut-ins. After the performance which was hugely enjoyed and appreciated, the patients and their guests had an added treat of delicious refreshments. Even though they expressed their thanks and appreciation on Wednesday evening, the patients at the hospital want to make public acknowledgment of their gratitude to the St. Peter's young people for their efforts which resulted in such a happy evening.

MORAN SCHOOL TO KEEP OPEN ALL SUMMER

Boys and girls in general look forward to the months of July and August as vacation period. Despite this fact, each year finds more and more young people utilizing the opportunity this season offers for educational advancement along practical lines, according to a report received from the Moran Business School, Burgevin Building, Fair and Main streets.

The advertising columns of today's Freeman contain an announcement of the 10th annual summer term of this modern business training institution. Like the thousands who are enrolling for summer courses in the great educational centers, a goodly number of young people in Kingston are planning to devote the major portion of the summer months to the acquiring of practical knowledge. The regular program of courses will be followed at the Moran School's summer sessions, with greatly increased opportunity for individual tutoring in all subjects. Special arrangements will be made for those desiring part-time programs in typewriting and other business branches. Students may enter on any school day—preferably on June 23, June 30, or July 7.

Hold Gulotta For Manslaughter

DRESSING THE YOUNGER SET IS BIG PROBLEM

(By Eleanor Gunn).

Commencement exercises are a matter of current interest to many and vacation clothes for the young are as important a factor as for their elders. Clothes for the young fry are exceptionally pretty this season, not having been loath to borrow ideas from dresses and suits intended for the grownups. The sleeveless dress is an example of this; the Jenny neckline another, while her-thas and jabots are even found in misses' departments and in miniature models.

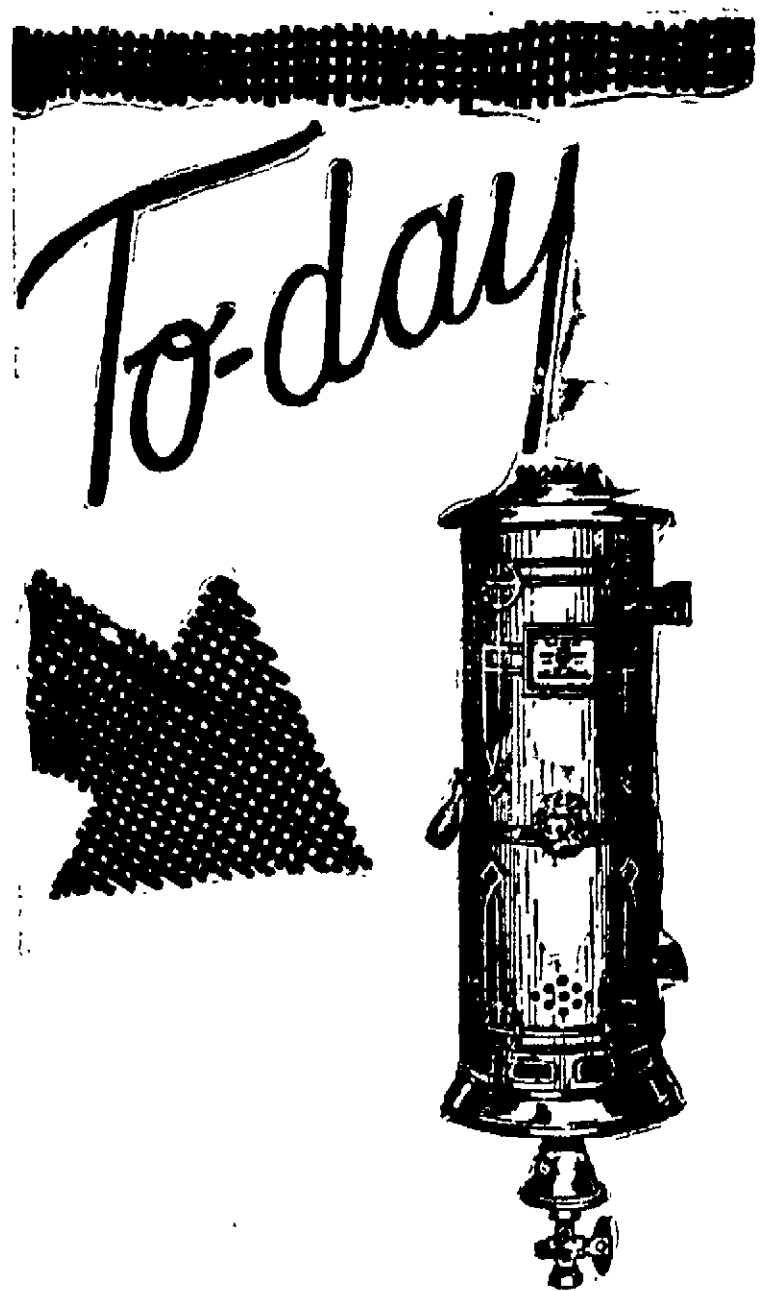

Children's clothes have for some time shown a tendency to stray away from accustomed groves and to be made of colors which are usually not associated with childhood. Blacks, purples, greens and yellows have been seen to a considerable extent where the little daughters of the rich assemble. Pinks and blues have been too trite to notice, but with poudre blue and periwinkle being used for grown folks, children's clothes have taken on the same hue. Yellow is very popular among the younger set and so is orchid. The use of vermilion ribbon and white lace on white crepe is warranted to attract attention to the fortunate child possessing this charming French model in white crepe. While it is a straightline model, the placement of the ribbon suggests a long waistline, and the deep bertha does away with any necessity for sleeves. Most of the dainty summer frocks designed for afternoon wear are sleeveless just now, some having a bow of ribbon with long ends on the shoulder.

Even the youngster may have a flannel sports frock, but most mothers prefer to keep their young in wash silks, cotton voiles or limes, all of which are at present at their zenith.

A satin finished crepe is chosen for the graduation dress sketched, a dress one may rely on for formal occasions throughout the summer. Panels of Valenciennes lace and dainty bows of ribbon provide ample decoration, for the trend in junior clothes is toward plain lines with a minimum of trimming. Among the acceptable trimmings are tiny pearl buttons which may have all manner of decorative applications.

Masonic Club
Seeks Members

Organized a Year Ago It Now Has Membership of 250 and Expects to Increase in Numbers—Activities of Past Year.

The Masonic Club of Kingston was organized early in 1923 to provide a place and means of social and fraternal intercourse between members of the craft. At the last meeting of the club it was decided to hold a membership drive and circulars are being mailed to all Master Masons in Kingston and vicinity. The club, leased quarters at 635 Broadway where its club rooms consist of a parlor and reading room, card room, billiard room and ball room with kitchen adjoining.

The club has now some 250 members. The rooms are open every week day from 1:30 p. m. to 11:30 p. m. Every day, especially during the evening, a number of Masons may be found availing themselves of the facilities of the club for social intercourse, recreation, business and fraternal engagements. During the past winter a series of club dances were held which attracted an attendance taxing the capacity of the ballroom. A series of lectures, lectures and entertainments were held which filled the same room on each occasion. A few books have been collected, including a number of works on Masonic subjects, which are available to members as are also a number of papers and periodicals.

If there ever existed any local factional or fraternal jealousies or prejudices among the Masons of Kingston the club is rapidly breaking them down and is performing a real service in encouraging friendly intercourse and exchange of ideas among members of the fraternity.

If the time ever comes when the question of a Masonic Temple in Kingston should be seriously considered, it will be found that the club has justified its existence in having advanced the community spirit among the Masons of the city to an extent that will minimize the difficulties of agreement upon questions of site, accommodations, plan of procedure and management.

Masonic clubs are coming into existence all over the country. There are already some 650 of them and membership in one carries with it availability of club privileges in all others.

Masonic clubs have no degrees or initiatory ceremonies; they impose no ritual or obligations of duty or attendance upon "Blue Lodge" Masons. They do provide every day in the week facilities for Masonic fellowship.

The Masonic Club of Kingston has passed through its first—the hardest year. Its continuance and greatest usefulness depends upon substantial support and every Mason in the Kingston jurisdiction should welcome the opportunity to encourage by his membership, this worthwhile institution.

ADDRESS AT FRANKLIN STREET ZION CHURCH

On Sunday evening, the fourth annual address was delivered at the Franklin Street A. M. E. Zion Church by the pastor, the Rev. E. O. Clarke, who has just successfully completed a four years pastorate at this church. The pastor said: "Words cannot express my appreciation of your service during my four years' stay, especially during the past year. Your unanimous vote for my return is proof of your appreciation of my service. We may sometimes have differed in matters of opinion concerning the interests of the church, but our friendship and love as Christians have continued to flourish. The closing conference year has not been without suffering and death, but it is simply the will of God. Fourteen members have been added to our fellowship during the year, an increase over the past year. Our membership exceeds our seating capacity and nearly $5,000 has been raised to meet the increasing demands of our church. This has been accomplished with hardly any outside contributions. Our citizens stand ready to help us in any undertaking for the betterment of our Zion church. Those of you who think otherwise are sadly mistaken. They do not expect you to accomplish the impossible without their assistance. Our people are coming up in large numbers from the south. Here in Kingston we have our own problem to solve. The man who hires two or three hundred colored men to work for him should have some interest in their spiritual welfare, if he is to obtain the best service. The pastor seeks the cooperation of these employers."

The auxiliaries of the church were very highly commended by Mr. Clarke.

At the morning service the pastor spoke on "The Eagle," the day being an Eagle Rally Day. The pulpit was draped with the Stars and Stripes and a representative eagle was furnished by S. Cohen's Sons. It was the first rally of its kind, personally worked out by the pastor. On Tuesday evening the last entertainment for the conference year will be held.

Tent Caterpillar Destruction.
Action to protect fruit trees and other varieties from attacks of the tent caterpillar, capable of causing great damage through defoliation, is urged by Commissioner Berne A. Pyke of the Department of Farms and Markets. While this insect has not been prevalent enough in various parts of the state to do great damage in later years, due to the efforts at control, there are periodic outbreaks from time to time. Commissioner Pyke stated that the tent caterpillar has been found recently in some of the southern Hudson river counties and in New Jersey and Connecticut.

What Is a Kiwi?

Visitors at an aviation field heard an officer refer to "Kiwi" (pronounced keewee) and found on inquiry that it applied to young aviators who had not won their certificates as pilots. The term "Kiwi" is now almost universally adopted to indicate the aviator who can't fly. The Kiwi is a wingless bird of New Zealand, and is practically a miniature moa, that giant bird now extinct.

Employing the Magic Crystal With Success

By SELINA E. HIGGINS
(© 1924 Western Newspaper Union.)

FOR a whole day our darling had moved about the house as one in some dreamlike trance. Elida was listless. She would sit for an hour gazing at seeming nothingness.

I, her aunt and guardian, wondered if it was anxiety for her absent lover, Willard Hall, that had brought on this deep abstraction.

It was early that evening when a warm friend of the family dropped in. She was a music teacher and quite an attraction at local social entertainments. She had been out late the evening previous at a soiree that I knew Miss Evans had also attended.

We were close friends with the music teacher, and in my anxiety and perplexity I spoke of the strange mood that had held Elida in a strange thrall.

"My dear Miss Nettleton," spoke my visitor, when I had concluded, "I came purposely to see Elida. You understand me well enough to know that it would not be from any idle curiosity, but from motives of the purest friendly interest. Something happened at the soiree last evening that was inexplicable.

"Something happened?" I repeated, a trifle fearfully.

"Yes. A young man, his name was given as Dalziel, attended the soiree last evening. He came with the Ritchies, whom I only know incidentally. He is a wonderful conversationalist and a marvel at the piano."

"And he met Elida?" I asked, dreading that something might shadow the love and loyalty of my darling and her fiancé.

"Only as he did the others, as a gentleman of great attainments, courteous to everybody. He had just finished a brilliant musical composition of his own, however, when I saw him lean toward Elida, who sat nearby, and fix his eyes upon her. A light shone in them, I cannot describe."

"You are alarming me," I said timorously.

"I am sorry, but I must tell you all," replied Miss Evans. "I saw Elida start and a nervous tremor crossed her face. She was like one enrapt, fascinated. Suddenly, but without removing his glance, this Dalziel dashed both hands down upon the keyboard of the piano. There was a strain of wild, unearthly music. A look I cannot describe passed over Elida's face. Near to her was a stand containing a fragile glass receptacle for calling cards. She seized this, dashed it violently to the floor and it shattered to a thousand atoms. Then with a low cry she shrank back shuddering, covered her face with her hands."

"You astonish me!" was all I could gasp out.

"I glanced at young Dalziel," went on Miss Evans. "There was a strange, weird expression on his face. He dashed off into a quick, lively Polish mazurka."

I had gone two blocks from the house and was turning into an intersecting street, when I chanced to look back. A man was just going up the steps of our home. In a flash I recognized him as answering the description Miss Evans had given me of Dalziel. I hurried back to the house. I paused to take up a small revolver kept for security in the drawer of the hall rack. Then I proceeded to the parlor entrance.

An amazing spectacle met my view. Seated at a little stand, her face pale but placid, her eyes dreamy and glazed, was Elida. Standing before her was the stranger. He held a piece of faceted crystal in one hand. On that Elida's eyes were fixed.

"Who are you? What are you doing here?" I quavered impulsively, and the man turned to face the weapon in my trembling hand.

He was not in the least moved. He placed a warning finger to his lip, never lowering the crystal.

"For Willard Hall!" was his astonishing announcement in low musical tones.

"From Willard Hall!" I cried. "No—for him. Do not interrupt—it is a critical moment. Speak!" he added, directing the mellow insinuating word at the transfixed Elida and fixing his glance piercingly upon her.

"The wall—is it east? And which wall?"

"No," came in a dreamy, faraway murmur from Elida. "Not a wall—but a well."

"Success!" gasped the stranger, and sank into the nearest chair as if exhausted after some superhuman effort. In a few moments the man arose. He made some movements with his delicate hands toward Elida, whose face renewed its usual expression. Then he turned to me.

"Miss Nettleton," he said, "I have heard of you. I am a friend of Willard Hall, who has gone to look up the hidden fortune of his dead uncle. He did not find it at any wall, as the hint was. I am credited with possessing certain occult power. Perhaps at least, my mind filled only with honest motives, working on the pure crystal-clear mentality of this beautiful young lady, has evolved a clew—well, not wall."

It was a well, indeed—we knew it within a week, when Elida's fiancé came back a rich man.

And Dalziel, the strange, mystic genius whom I at first so feared, my all love now as a loyal, devoted friend.

Industrials and Utilities Rise

New High Prices on Present Up Swing Recorded in Stock Exchange Transactions Today.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
New York, June 17.—Buying of public utilities featured trading at the opening of the stock market today. Brooklyn Union Gas was particularly strong rising 2 1/2 points to 65. Consolidated Gas rose 1/2 to 63 1/2 and American Water Works 1/2 to 70 1/2.

The industrial list showed steadiness. U. S. Steel rose 1/4 to 97 1/2, Bethlehem 1/4 to 47 1/2, Colorado Fuel 1/4 to 44 1/2, and Baldwin 1/4 to 111 1/2. Oils were steady. Pete 3/4 to 34 1/2. Rails opened firm.

Kelly Springfield lost 1/4 to 13 1/2. Stocks gathered additional strength in the forenoon trading. The market increased its breadth, interest being extended to issues which have been virtually dormant. This policy of bringing new favorites to the front while others are being allowed to rest has been followed successfully in previous bull movements and has tended to a lesser or larger degree to preserve the list's technical condition.

Railroad shares, for example, which heretofore have been the undisputed leaders on the advance, temporarily resigned this enviable position, although that group did not fail to produce its customary new high ground under active training.

Public utilities, on the other hand, retained their prominent place which they have occupied for some time past already. Brooklyn Union Gas was an early feature, while Consolidated Gas touched a new top for the year in response to the Federal court decision confirming the ruling that the one dollar gas rate was confiscatory and unconstitutional.

Leadership in the industrial list was vested in Baldwin, which rose to 113 for a new high on the present up swing and the tobaccos which under the broad buying established substantial gains. The process of marking up the chain store issues continued with unabated vigor. Woolworth reached 104 1/2, up nearly 2 points and Kresge made a new high record at 380 1/2 an advance of 15 points.

Motors and accessories were backward, excepting Maxwell Motor, the rise in this stock being due to pool operations. Steels and oils were not much changed.

Copper reflected a firmer tone for the red metal. The passing of the dividend on Kelly Springfield 6 per cent preferred caused weakness in that quarter. National Lead, American Radiator, East Iron Pipe, Davison Chemical, Air Reduction, Colorado Fuel and American Can were strong spots. Call money renewed at 2 per cent.

A decision has been filed by Judge Staley in an action brought by Walter S. Fredenburgh against Emanuel Metzger and Fredenburgh-Metger Realty Company, Inc.

In his decision Judge Staley dismisses the action as to the corporation but holds that the complaint states facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action against the defendant Emanuel Metzger. Brininger and Sanford are the attorneys for the plaintiff, Walter S. Fredenburgh, and Frank W. Brooks is the attorney for the defendant Emanuel Metzger.

The action was brought by the plaintiff, who demanded judgment against the defendant, Emanuel Metzger, for the sum of $5,000 and also that the said defendant be enjoined from collecting either personally or in the name of the defendant company a certain judgment. The plaintiff alleged in the complaint that he had been engaged in the real estate business in Kingston, for a period of years prior to August, 1921, as an agent and broker and had listed a number of properties situated in the county of Ulster for sale and had made or caused to be made complete descriptions of said properties involving a large expense and considerable amount of labor.

He claimed that in August, 1921, he and defendant Metzger agreed to enter into a partnership to conduct a real estate brokerage business at Kingston, N. Y., and in connection therewith the plaintiff agreed to contribute the use of his list and listings and descriptions and agreed to act as office manager or inside man and to give and contribute his individual time and service to the business. That the defendant Metzger agreed to contribute the sum of $1,000 and to act principally as outside or field man and to contribute his individual time and service to the business. That each would contribute his time and attention to the management and development of the business and would receive one-half the profits therefrom.

On or about August 16, 1921, the defendant, Fredenburgh-Metger Realty Company, Inc., was incorporated with the plaintiff and defendant Metzger as directors and officers and as the sole shareholders in equal proportion, excepting as to five shares which were issued to a third person, who thereafter transferred them to the plaintiff. The plaintiff claimed that the defendant company was incorporated at the suggestion of the defendant Metzger for the purpose of conducting said partnership business with greater prestige and better effectiveness but that official meetings of said corporation were not held and no requirements as a bona fide corporation were not complied with but that said business was conducted as a co-

Many Women Have Solved This Problem

It has always been a problem for women to hold up under the strain of their household and other duties. From morning 'till night so much is to be done and so much is left undone.

There are housekeeping burdens—shopping, touring—caring for the children—social visits to make—and a thousand and one things to do. The average woman finds herself tired out before evening comes, unable to enjoy recreation.

Many women have solved the problem of "keeping up" by eliminating one big cause of fatigue. They have found new energy in their efforts by wearing a shoe which helps them get around easily by its harmonizing action with every foot movement. They have found this in the encouraging and stimulating effect of the flexible arch of the

Cantilever Shoe

When your feet are free to function, comfortably, easily—you will find yourself less tired, and even refreshed from the natural exercise. You can enjoy your duties when you are moving about with the springs, natural action of every foot muscle that is permitted in the Cantilever shoe.

Order may be entered dismissing the complaint as to the defendant corporation and denying the motion as to the defendant Metzger without costs.

Judge Webber Imposes Fines. In Judge Walter Webber's court at Flatbush, town of Ulster, Monday evening, Herbert Butts and William Redding, who were arrested on a charge of assault in the third degree for fighting, were each fined $2.50, which they paid. James Williams, arrested for disorderly conduct while intoxicated, was fined $30, which was paid.

Insane Athlete At Large, Naked

Overtraining for Olympic Swimming Caused Mental Breakdown—Swam Hudson and Disappeared in New Jersey Woods.

New York, June 17.—State troopers and New Jersey police are scouring the Palisades cliffs today near Alpine, N. J., for Leo Giebel, who leaped from an ambulance, tore off his clothes and swam the Hudson river.

Giebel, a member of the New York Athletic Club, was formerly long distance swimming champion of the United States. He had been taken suddenly ill in the New York National Guard camp at Peekskill, where he was training for the Olympic events and ordered home.

When last seen, Giebel was disappearing naked into the woods, opposite Yonkers. He is a powerful swimmer, and before the ambulance attendants and police could get a motor boat to follow him he had reached the shore and vanished running into the woods.

When the search failed to find the demented man, police of Alpine were notified. They joined the hunt and warned many girl campers in the woods along the Interstate Park shore.

Giebel's illness was caused apparently by overtraining in his desire to make the Olympic swimming team. Plans were made immediately to bring him to New York. He was placed in an ambulance and accompanied by Sergeant John Lanzer and Private Philip Innes of the 102d Medical Corps.

When the ambulance reached Yonkers, Giebel jumped out and ran to the banks of the Hudson. He stripped off his clothes rapidly, and before attendants could catch him, had dived into the river and struck out for the opposite shore.

All Stars Lost At Millbrook

The All Star club traveled to Millbrook Sunday and met defeat at the hands of the home team, score 5 to 1. Steve Connelly was on the mound for the local club and although he allowed less hits than the opposing pitcher he was defeated.

Patruna, left handed pitching ace of the Millbrook team, was effective with men on bases, the locals having men on the bags in every inning.

Stump led the local club in batting, getting a triple and two singles. Black made a wonderful catch in the third inning, robbing Hammond of a three bagger. There were more fly balls caught by the Millbrook fielders than was ever seen on that field before.

The local team had men on in nearly every inning, but only in the seventh could they put a run across. The All Stars hit 10 safe blows to the winners' 5.

Balsa Out of Heavyweight Race

By Telegraph to The Freeman. New York, June 17.—Andrew Balsa, "champion heavyweight of Spain" won't do, he will never fight Jack Dempsey. Upon that all boxing experts today were agreed.

Balsa, a bull necked, heavy bodied individual was given his first chance here last night to show what he could do against American fighters. He was pitted against the fast, clean cut young Iowa heavyweight, Floyd Johnson. He was beaten almost to a pulp, beaten so badly, in fact that the referee stopped the bout in the third round.

It was a sickening, bloody battle. Balsa, with his arms wrapped about his chin and crouching like a wrestler that he is said to be, rushed at Johnson when the bell sounded for the opening round. Johnson put out his left, stopped the onrushing Spaniard and then let fly with a terrific right uppercut. Balsa careened against the ropes and blood poured from his nose. Johnson started to slaughter Balsa in the third when the bout was stopped.

Lawrence Pitches Good Ball at Englewood Saturday and Locals Win 4 to 2—Next Game With Poughkeepsie.

Saturday afternoon the baseball team of the local high school journeyed to Englewood, N. J., and there defeated the Englewood high school team for the second time. The score of the game was 4 to 2.

The excellent pitching of Ray Lawrence did much to win the game. Englewood could only touch him for two hits which were scattered. Lawrence struck out seven men. The support of the locals was poor, six errors being chalked up against them.

Murberg, Englewood's pitcher, struck out twelve men, but he gave eight bases on balls, which helped the locals. Englewood made only two errors.

Howard led the batters with two out of the five hits gathered by the local team. The members of the local team were the guests of members of the Englewood team and received excellent treatment and were given a good time.

The locals are in tip top form for the coming game with Poughkeepsie for the Dutch league championship. Newburgh dropped out of the race when they were defeated by Middletown Saturday.

GEORGE C. BROWN NOW AT OFFICERS' TRAINING CAMP

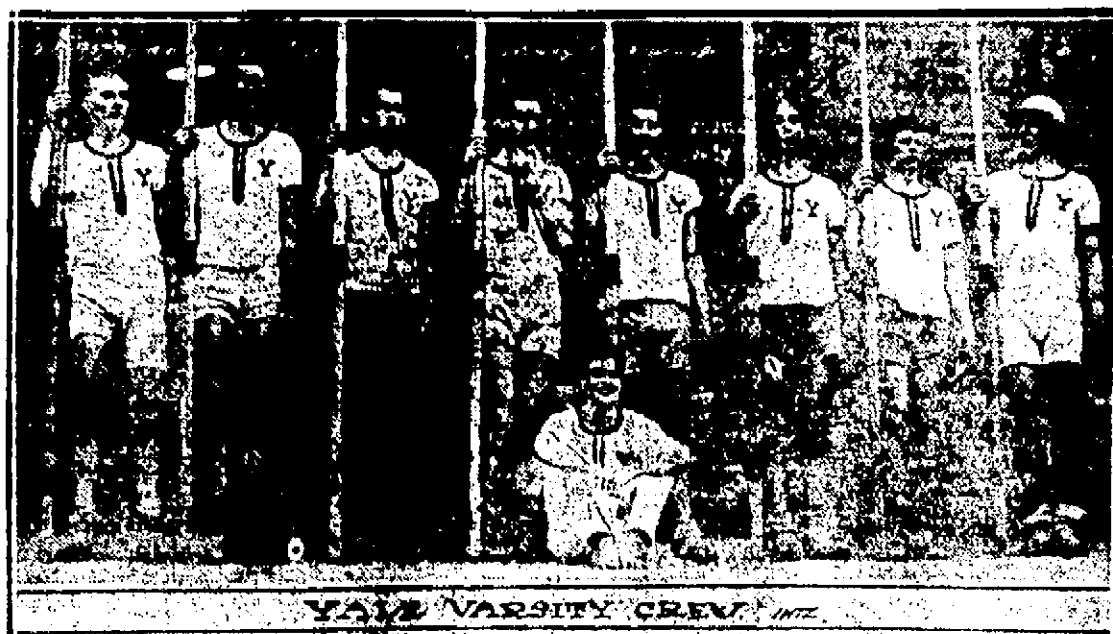

College and prep school students from sixteen institutions flocked into the famous old army town of Plattsburg on Saturday to begin their six weeks under canvas in the 1924 Reserve Officers Training Corps camp, commanded this year by Lieut.-Col. S. A. Campbell, United States Army. This is the first of a series of five camps to be held at Plattsburg this summer and will be followed by two C. M. T. camps and two camps for reserve officers. Among those at the camp are George C. Brown of this city registered from Cornell University.

THE N. Y. HISTORICAL SOCIETY

The plans for the organization of this society which has evolved itself into an institution, were originated in 1804—and had for their objective the collection and preservation, for the benefit and enjoyment of coming generations, those photographs, books, maps, newspapers, paintings and other objects which helped to keep and show the record of the progress of America's most important city.

These exhibits are now housed in a dignified and substantial building in Central Park West, New York city. The library is said to contain upward of 140,000 volumes and 155,000 pamphlets. The gallery of art houses more than 1,000 paintings, most of which are of intense interest and are without exact duplicate elsewhere. Then there are numerous portraits of former Indians, generals, politicians and great and near-great men in other and various walks of life who at one time or another have been prominent in the affairs of New York. Among such, for instance, may be mentioned Cornelius Sternwick, who was burgomaster of New York under the Dutch and who later became mayor of the city under English rule. This portrait, it is thought, was painted in 1667 by the husband of Sternwick's sister while Mr. Sternwick was visiting in Europe.

The museum contains a large, interesting and priceless collection of heirlooms and other objects. To mention a few at random—there is an elaborate punch bowl made in England for a dinner given at Castle Garden in commemoration of the landing of the French General Lafayette in this country in 1824; also a fan made for the guests of the ball given in his honor; a glass mug made in commemoration of the admittance of the state of Vermont into the Union in 1791; a table used in 1789 by the federal congress; shackles which were removed from a slave (girl) at Americas, Ga., in 1806.

Some of the manuscripts are absorbingly interesting. Among these are a letter written in 1777 by Patrick Henry; another dated Mt. Vernon, Va., November 9, 1789, and penned by George Washington; a deed covering land in Albany, N. Y., dated 1685, and a military record of President William Henry Harrison.

Among the views on exhibit are one of the city and harbor of New York as of the year 1704, and another showing how the now famous Wall street looked way back in 1820.

Do's and Don't's For Summers

New York State Health Department
Secretary Gave Valuable Hints in Radio Talk.

The recent health radio broadcast from Station WGY, Schenectady, Friday evening, by Dr. Edward H. Marsh, the secretary of the State Department of Health, who spoke on "Swimming," is interesting and valuable to those who swim as well as to those who don't.

Dr. Marsh said that swimming is a most beneficial exercise when done in moderation, but emphasized the point that if carried to excess it may be distinctly harmful. In the course of his talk he called attention to the following rules for swimmers:

Don't try to break a record every time you go in the water.
Never go in swimming until at least two hours after a meal.
Come out as soon as you begin to feel chilly.

Before diving, always know the depth of the water and be sure that there are no submerged rocks or logs on which you may possibly strike your head. It doesn't take a severe blow on the head to stun a person, and if this happens under water, drowning may result.

Dr. Marsh said that for most people it was still too cold for swimming, but also said that if one can stand the shock of the cold water it is harmless, and illustrated his point by reference to the "snow birds," as the people are called who bathe daily the year round in the ocean at Brighton Beach.

"Swimming is an accomplishment which every individual should have, even if he can only swim a few feet," said Dr. Marsh. "None of us knows when the ability to swim may save a life—our own or possibly someone else's. Some of you may ask of what use it is to be able to swim only a dozen yards if your canoe should be upset a half mile from shore. Did you ever stop to think that a boat or canoe will float, not only full of water but with the additional weight of several people clinging to it. You can see, therefore, how valuable it may be some time to be able to swim a dozen yards or so back to your boat, there to hang on until help reaches you. Of course if you can swim great distances—so much the better."

"From the standpoint of health, swimming is one of the most beneficial exercises. It brings into play many muscles of which we ordinarily make relatively little use. It is a particularly good chest exercise and greatly increases the capacity of the lungs. You will recall that the pictures of all good swimmers show deep-chested individuals with powerful shoulders and chest muscles. Another reason that swimming is a good hot weather exercise is, that one does not become overheated. The same amount of heat is generated in the body as is generated by any other exercise of similar violence, but it does not accumulate within the body, it passes off into the surrounding cool water."

"Although swimming is an excellent form of exercise, when carried to excess the results may be harmful because of the strain put upon the heart. When you walk there is little strain put upon that organ, but when you run the heart has to do an added amount of work, and you know that when you run too fast or too far your heart thumps and you become short of breath. When you swim, the muscles must work much harder than when you walk, for your body is being pushed through water which is far more resistant than the air, and when you try to swim rapidly, as in a swimming race, the ultimate strain of the heart is terrific. Last summer one of the most noted swimmers in the country, a boy who had broken many many speed records, finally broke down after several successive races, and was taken to a hospital to be treated for an acute enlargement of the heart."

"Often we hear of a swimmer suffering with cramps and drowning as a result. Cramps in the legs are of little moment. One can swim even though his legs are cramped, provided he keeps his wits about him and doesn't get excited. Abdominal cramps, however, are different. It is this condition which leads to many drowning accidents, and is most likely to occur when one goes in swimming soon after eating a hearty meal."

"One of the commonest sights at bathing places is a person with his teeth chattering and his lips and fingernails blue. This is the result of staying in the cold water too long. Swimming and diving are inseparable sports. Diving for those who can swim is perfectly safe, provided the water is sufficiently deep. On the other hand it is never safe to dive into water unless you know what the conditions are beneath the surface."

Court Opinion in Livingston Case

Court of Appeals Says Railroad Company Should Not Pay for Improvements to Livingston Manor Property.

The opinion of Judge Cardozo of the court of appeals reversing the award made to Charles Victor Livingston against the New York, Ontario & Western Railroad Company of $49,000 for the value of the railroad structures on the land purchased and paid for by the company under the deed given by the father of Victor, Charles Octavius Livingston, is so complete and so sweeping and of such consequence to the people of Livingston Manor, some of whom have paid large sums of money to Livingston that it is published herewith in full:

New York, Ontario and Western Railroad Company, appellant, v. Charles Victor Livingston, respondent.

(Decided June 3, 1924.)
Appeal from an order of the appellate division of the supreme court in the third judicial department, affirming a final order of the special term, which confirmed the report of commissioners in condemnation proceedings.

A. T. Clearwater, for appellant.
Howard Chipp for respondent.
Cardozo, J. Edward Livingston, who died in 1864, devised to his nephew Charles Octavius Livingston, a farm of two hundred acres at Livingston Manor, Sullivan county, New York, "said farm and its appurtenances to be used and enjoyed by my said nephew during the term of his natural life, and at his decease to descend to the eldest son of my said nephew who shall then be living; and if my said nephew shall die leaving no son, then the said farm shall descend to the daughters of my said nephew, who shall then be living, and the issue of such daughters as may before that time have died," with a gift over to others in other contingencies. He enjoined upon his "nephews and such of their children who may at any time become possessed of the said farm under this will that they do not sell or in any manner part with the same," it being his "desire that the said farm with the appurtenances shall remain in the possession of" his "family, and that the same should not be sold or pass into the possession of strangers."

In 1871 the nephew, Charles Octavius Livingston, who by this will was at least a life tenant, and who claimed the fee, conveyed the farm to one Morris, and his heirs and assigns forever covenanting that "the children and descendants of the party of the first part, each and every one of them, shall be forever estopped and barred from claiming any title, estate or interest in the said lands or any portion thereof." In 1872 the New York and Oswego Midland Railroad Company constructed its railroad upon and over the farm, under an agreement with Morris for the conveyance of a right of way. In 1880 Morris, pursuant to this agreement, executed a conveyance in fee, with covenant of warranty, to the appellant, the New York, Ontario and Western Railroad Company, the successor in interest of the New York and Oswego Railroad Company. Other portions of the farm were purchased later. Upon the land so acquired the railroad company built a passenger station, a freight house and other structures as well as tracks and sidings.

The life tenant, Charles Octavius Livingston, died in 1914, survived by the respondent, Charles Victor Livingston, his eldest son. The latter made claim against the railroad company to the ownership of the land, and in 1917 began an action of ejectment to recover the possession. The railroad company answered that it was the owner of the premises and an appeal (198 App. Div. 823) was taken. This proceeding was then begun, in April, 1921, under section 17 of the railroad law, (Cons. Laws, ch. 49) to acquire title to the land as necessary for a public use in the exercise of the power of eminent domain. The commissioners' report which was confirmed by the court, fixed the value of the land without the improvement at $15,000 and the value of the improvements at $49,000, a total of $64,000. This total the appellant has been required to pay as the price of condemnation. The question is whether there was error in including the value of improvements.

We think a railroad company or other public agency which enters lawfully upon land and improves it in good faith, may exclude the value of the improvements in proceedings brought thereafter to condemn a hostile right (Searl v. School District, Lake County 133 U. S. 553, 561, 562; Chicago, Peoria & St. Louis R.R. Co. v. Vaughn, 206 Ill. 234, 247; R.R. Co. v. Willard, 61 Vt. 134; Norfolk & O. V. Ry. Co. v. Consol. Turnpike Co., 111 Va. 131, 141, 142; aff'd. 238 U. S. 596, 602; U. S. v. Smith 110 Fed. Rep. 338; Bear Gulch Placer Mining Co. v. Walsh, 198 Fed. Rep. 351; 2 Lewis on Eminent Domain, Sec. 507). Some courts go farther and concede a like privilege through the entry in its inception was unlawful, if only the trespasser acted innocently, under a mistaken claim of title (Searl v. School District, Lake County supra; Cohen v. St. Louis, etc., R. R. Co., 24 Kan. 158; Albion River R. Co. v. Hesser, 84 Cal. 435, overruling 47 Cal. 515). How we should rule in such circumstances we need not now determine. Other courts go even farther and concede a like privilege even to the willful wrongdoer (Justice v. N. Y. R. R. Co., 87 Penn. St. 28; Jones v. New Orleans R. R. Co. 70 Ala. 227; Lewis on Eminent Domain, supra). By our decision in Village of St. Johnsville v. Smith (184 N. Y. 341) we refused to place upon lawlessness a premium so tempting. There a village without color of right, and in advance of the initiation of any proceeding to condemn, had made an entry upon land in defiance to the express command and remonstrance of the owner (184 N. Y. at p. 344). We held that the price was not subject to abatement, but we did not fail to observe that equities exacting a different conclusion might flow from an entry that was lawful in its origin (184 N. Y. at p. 349). As authorities supporting the rule applicable to wrongdoers, we cited Matter of New York, West Shore Buffalo Ry. Co. (37 Hun 317) and Matter of Long Island R. R. Co. (6 T. & C. 298) where a naked or willful trespass was again the decisive feature. On the other hand, in this state as elsewhere the rigor of the rule enforced against the willful wrongdoer has been tempered to relieve the occupant who has entered innocently and lawfully (Matter of Norwood & M. R. R. Co., 47 Hun. 489; McNair v. Rochester, N. Y. & P. R. R. Co., 38 N. Y. St. Rep. 271; cf. Matter of City of New York, 186 N. Y. 84, 89). In such circumstances "just compensation" does not exact the addition of the value of the improvements to the value of the land. The maxim "qui plus habet minus perdit," has always had exceptions, and they increase with the ever varying necessities and exigencies of society." (R. R. Co. v. Vaughn, supra at p. 138; Consol. Turnpike Co. v. Norfolk & O. V. Ry. Co. 238 U. S. 596, 602). Commissioners in these proceedings are to ascertain and determine the compensation which ought "justly" to be made by the public or its delegate to the owners of the property (Condemnation Law (Consol. Laws, ch. 73), Sec. 17 of N. Y. Constitution, art. 1, sec. 6). "It is the duty of the state, in the conduct of the inquiry by which the compensation is ascertained, to see that it is just, not merely to the individual whose property is taken, but to the public which is to pay for it" (Searl v. School District, Lake County, 133 U. S. at p. 553, 562). No formula will be adequate unless its breadth of view and flexibility of adaptation are fitted and proportioned to the scheme and purpose of the inquiry. The problem is one of justice between the individual proprietor on the one hand and on the other hand the sovereign or the representative of sovereign power.

When the test of these principles is applied to the case before us the conclusion is hardly doubtful. The railroad company was not a willful trespasser when it entered upon this farm and placed improvements thereon. It was not a trespasser at all. It was the owner of an estate for the life of Livingston, the grantor, and it held a deed which gave support to a reasonable, though mistaken, belief that it was the owner of the fee. The life tenant had covenanted that his children and descendants were barred and estopped from assailing the validity of the grant; and the assumption was not a strained one that he knew whereof he spoke. In such circumstances, we cannot doubt that the value of the improvements would have been excluded if the railroad company had brought proceedings during the life estate to acquire the remainder. We think it is not a sufficient reason for applying a harsher rule that the proceedings were not begun till the particular estate had ended. The owner of the remainder has been compensated for the delay by the award of mesne profits during the period of detention (Civ. Prac. Act, Sec. 1011). We find no basis for a holding that he is entitled to something more. The improvements had been completed while the life tenant was yet in being, and the failure to yield possession at once upon his death would be penalized over-much if the increment of value were held to be forfeit altogether. The position of this railroad company as an actual tenant for life and a supposed owner in fee is very similar to that of the railroad company in a case in Illinois where there was entry under the deed of a tenant for life, and allowance in condemnation proceedings for improvements placed upon the land (Chicago, Peoria & St. Louis R. R. Co. v. Vaughn, 236 Ill. 234, 247). The circumstances of this entry dictate a like conclusion.

We do not overlook the argument that a life tenant who turns a farm into a railroad yard commits an act of waste. The effect of the so-called waste in this instance was to add $49,000 to the value. The act, if waste at all (Pynchon v. Stearns, 11 Metc. 304, 310; Melms v. Pabst Brewing Co., 104 Wis. 7; Winslow v. Pitts, 3 Paige, 259; Agate v. Lowenbels, 57 N. Y. 604, 615), was at the utmost mellowing waste, improving instead of injuring the remainder man's inheritance (Doherty v. Allman, 3 App. Cas. 709). We think a wrong to technical does not destroy the equities that would otherwise be available for the protection of the occupant, at all events in a case where to the ownership of a life estate there is added color of lawful claim to the ownership of the fee.

Nothing inconsistent with our present ruling was held in Philadelphia, R. & N. E. R. R. Co. v. Bowman (23 App. Div. 170; 163 N. Y. 572.) There the improvements were made upon land subject to a mortgage, and title had passed to a stranger who bought at the foreclosure sale in the belief that the improvements were covered by the deed. Just compensation if determined by "equitable principles" (U. S. v. Rogers 257 Fed. Rep. 397, 400), and its measure varies with the facts.

WELL KEPT VINEYARDS RESPOND TO NITRATES

New York vineyards which are properly drained and cultivated and in which insect pests and diseases are held in check by careful spraying may be benefited by the addition of commercial fertilizers, particularly nitrogenous materials, say the horticulturists at the State Agricultural Experiment Station at Geneva, although fertilizers alone will not overcome the ill effects of neglect in the care of the vineyard.

In long continued experiments in the station vineyards, applications of nitrogen as sodium nitrate or cottonseed meal and of acid phosphate and potash increased the wood growth and the yield and improved the quality of the fruit, with the nitrogen giving the best results. It is stated. More and larger grapes and larger clusters of grapes were produced when nitrogen was used, and the foliage was of better color and size with nitrogen than without.

Whether or not a cover crop is grown in the vineyard, it is recommended that from 250 to 300 pounds of nitrate of soda be applied in two lots, the first lot shortly after the leaves unfold and the second lot two or three weeks later. The nitrate should be broadcasted and harrowed in lightly.

Tannersville to Have Ball Club

According to the Tannersville Times-Record that village is to have a ball club "that is going to make disconsolate the hearts of many a team this year." The Tannersville club opens its season on June 21 with Chippie Johnson's Colored Stars at Tannersville.

Of interest to local fans is the fact that Tannersville will play the Colonials a double-header on the Fourth of July at the Kingston Fair Grounds.

This year Tannersville will line up as follows: Catcher, Strenk; first base, Shannon; second base, Green; shortstop, Moore; center field, Keating; right field, Weinsold; third base, Porter; left field, Short; pitchers, Deetjen, Williams, Harris and Walsh.

The Tannersville paper has this to say about some of the players: Walter Shannon, who will hold down the initial sack this year, is known throughout Florida, where he plays on the Florida State League, as "The Home Run King."

Eddie Green, who will play at second, will act as captain and manager of the team. He has managed the Bronx Giants and the Tesoro Bears before coming to Tannersville.

Moore, who will do his stuff at short, is a former member of the Philadelphia Athletics.

Keating is a college player of note and comes here from the University of Vermont. Harris and "Soddy" Porter are both well known here, having played for Tannersville for several seasons.

Weinsold is from College Point which supports one of the fastest teams in New York state.

Williams is a full-blooded Comanche Indian who has been playing for Quebec. It is said that he scares the opposing batters to death.

George Strenk needs no introduction to local fans and will play this year in his natural position at the receiving end. Having played against most of the teams which will play Tannersville this year, he will be of inestimable value to the pitching staff.

Percy Short who will play in the left garden, is a Saugerties boy and has also played many times on the local club. Short is a good safe hitter and also knows how to field them.

Dance will be held tonight at Pete Boice's Hall on the Plank Road.

The Giants gained a full game on the Cubs when they won from the Cards 7 to 3 while the Phillies were trimming Chicago 8 to 3. The Giants now have a game and a half lead. In the American League the standings showed no change as both the Yankees and Red Sox lost, the former to the Indians 2 to 1, the latter to the Tigers 3 to 0. The Yankees still have a full game lead. The Dodgers kept up their good work by winning from the Reds 5 to 2, errors proving fatal to the Rhinelanders' cause.

Hooper's home run with the bases full was the feature of the White Sox victory over the Senators, 9 to 8. The Braves pounded the Pirates' pitchers and won 9 to 4. The Browns scored an easy victory over the Athletics, 10 to 2.
